Products are widely used in petrochemicals, metallurgy, electricity, schools, and high-rise buildings, offering corrosion resistance, aesthetic appearance, and flexible installation. Their trays support both active and passive cables, with design considerations for EMC protection, cable separation, and safe routing. Vergokan / AtkoreSpecializes in metal cable support systems, including cable trays, wire cable trays, cable ladders, floor installations, and mounting systems.

Offers stainless steel options, fire-resistant systems (E30-E90), and various surface treatments, suitable for industrial and commercial projects.

Considerations for Direct Purchase

Material and Type: Choose between ladder-type, wire mesh, or trough cable trays depending on load, environment, and cable type. Installation Requirements: Ensure trays comply with local building codes and allow for proper separation of active and passive cables. Supplier Contact: Use B2B platforms like Europages to reach manufacturers directly for pricing, minimum order quantities, and shipping options.

Project Scale: Large-scale projects may require custom sizes, corrosion-resistant coatings, or fire-rated trays. By contacting these manufacturers directly, you can obtain competitive pricing, technical specifications, and bulk order options for cable trays in Comoros, ensuring compliance with safety and installation standards.
