Key Takeaways

Cable tray connection fixing plates typically range from £2 to £15 per piece, depending on material, type, and supplier.

Types of Cable Tray Connection Plates

Cable tray connection fixing plates, also known as joint plates or splice plates, are used to join two sections of cable tray securely, ensuring mechanical strength and electrical continuity. Common types include: Standard Splice Plate: Joins two straight sections of tray; sits on both sides of the tray rails. Coupler Plate for Fittings: Designed for bends, risers, or reducers to ensure smooth transitions.

Adjustable Joint Plate: Allows slight movement for alignment adjustments during installation. Universal Splice Kit: Includes plates and hardware compatible with multiple tray types.

Materials

The material of the fixing plate affects both durability and price: Galvanized Iron (GI): Affordable, corrosion-resistant for indoor use.

Hot-

Dip Galvanized Steel: Offers superior protection against corrosion, suitable for harsher environments. Stainless Steel: High corrosion resistance, ideal for chemical plants or coastal areas; higher initial cost but long-term reliability.

Powder-

Coated Mild Steel: Balanced option for indoor installations with moderate moisture exposure.

Typical Pricing

While exact prices vary by supplier, quantity, and material, typical ranges are: Pre-galvanized mild steel plates: £2-£5 per piece. Hot-dip galvanized or stainless steel plates: £8-£15 per piece. Universal or adjustable kits: £10-£20 per kit, depending on included hardware.
