Key Takeaways

Congo Cables & Transformers is a local DRC manufacturer for electrical cables, while international providers like Nexconec, UZALENDO, YOFC, and ABS Cables supply optical fiber cables and testing solutions suitable for Congo.

Local Manufacturer

Congo Cables & Transformers is based in Lubumbashi, DRC, and produces a range of electrical cables, copper wires, and transformers in a state-of-the-art facility with a laboratory for quality assurance. While primarily focused on power and copper-based cables, they may serve as a local contact for electrical infrastructure projects and could potentially provide guidance on optical cable sourcing.

International Optical Fiber Cable Providers

Nexconec – Offers optical fiber cable solutions for data centers, telecom, and enterprise applications. They provide customized solutions, scalable production, and fast delivery to over 40 countries, making them a viable option for Congo-based projects.

UZALEND

O – Specializes in fiber optic communication systems, including test and measurement equipment, fusion splicing machines, and fiber blowing machines optimized for FTTX installation. They provide both cables and installation support.

YOF

C (Yangtze Optical Fibre and Cable) – A global leader in optical fiber manufacturing, offering advanced preform technologies and next-generation optical connectivity solutions. They showcase high-performance hollow-core fiber and other cutting-edge optical products suitable for telecom and data networks.

AB

S Cables Ltd. – Manufactures high-quality optical fiber cables using advanced German technology. They supply to ICT companies, ISPs, and CATV providers, and are known for full-fledged manufacturing operations and reliable optical fiber products.

Recommendations

For local procurement and support, start with Congo Cables & Transformers to explore potential partnerships or guidance on optical cable sourcing. For high-performance optical fiber cables and testing equipment, consider international suppliers like Nexconec, UZALENDO, YOFC, or ABS Cables Ltd., which can ship to Congo and provide technical support. Evaluate suppliers based on product specifications, delivery timelines, and after-sales support, especially for optical testing and installation services.

This approach ensures access to both local expertise and advanced optical fiber technology for projects in Congo.
