- Single-Mode Fiber (OS1/OS2): Ideal for long-distance communication, commonly used in telecom networks and data centers .
- Multimode Fiber (OM1, OM2, OM3, OM4, OM5): Suitable for shorter distances, often used in office buildings and campus networks .
- Indoor vs Outdoor: Indoor cables include tight-buffered and loose-tube types, while outdoor cables may be armored or non-armored for environmental protection .
- Core Counts: Available from 2-core up to 96-core configurations, depending on network requirements .

Leading Suppliers in Dubai

- Microsys Networks LLC: Offers Etisalat and DU-approved fiber optic cables, including indoor/outdoor, armored/non-armored, and accessories like patch cords, panels, and ONU cabinets .
- Instec Technology: Supplies a variety of brands such as Corning, 3M, Panduit, and Excel, with options from 2-core to 96-core cables, including MTP/MPO and steel tape armored cables .

- Ultra Stream Technologies: Focuses on reliable single-mode and multimode cables suitable for commercial buildings, data centers, and large-scale network deployments, providing Excel fiber optic products .

- Considerations for Choosing Fiber Optic Cables
- Distance and Bandwidth: Single-mode is preferred for long distances; multimode is cost-effective for shorter runs.
 - Environment: Outdoor cables should be armored or have PE jackets for durability; indoor cables may use LSZH or PVC jackets.
 - Compatibility: Ensure cables are approved by local telecom providers (Etisalat, DU) if connecting to public networks.
 - Accessories: Patch panels, pigtails, and breakout boxes are essential for structured cabling and network management. Dubai's market provides comprehensive options for fiber optic cables, from small-scale residential setups to large enterprise networks, with suppliers offering both high-quality products and technical support to meet project specifications .
