Aluminum cable trays are widely used for structured cable management due to their lightweight design, high strength-to-weight ratio, and excellent corrosion resistance, even in harsh environments such as coastal or industrial areas . They are approximately half the weight of steel trays, simplifying installation and reducing structural load . Aluminum also provides high thermal conductivity, which helps prevent cable overheating, and is fire-resistant, producing no toxic gases in case of fire . These properties make aluminum trays both durable and eco-friendly.
