Key Takeaways

Outdoor lighting distribution boxes typically range from $50 to $500 or more per unit, depending on size, material, and features.Price Overview

The cost of an outdoor lighting distribution box depends on several factors:

• Material and Durability: Boxes made from ABS plastic or cold-rolled steel with weather-resistant coatings are common. Plastic enclosures are generally cheaper, starting around $50–$100, while metal or stainless steel units can cost $200–$500 or more .

• Size and Capacity: Small boxes for garden or residential use are on the lower end of the price spectrum, whereas larger boxes designed for street lighting or commercial applications with multiple circuits and higher amperage ratings (up to 100A) are more expensive .

• IP Rating and Weatherproofing: Outdoor boxes with IP65 or higher protection against dust and water are priced higher due to enhanced durability and safety .

• Wholesale vs Retail: Purchasing in bulk or from manufacturers like Alibaba or Made-in-China can reduce per-unit costs, especially for custom enclosures or modular designs .
Examples
• RSE Waterproof ABS Plastic Box: IP65, suitable for garden or small outdoor installations, typically priced around $50–$120 per unit .

• Commercial Street Lighting Distribution Boxes: Pole-mounted or wall-mounted units with lockable covers, suitable for public infrastructure, can range from $200 to $500+, depending on amperage and material .

• BEGA Soil Installation Boxes: High-protection boxes (IP68) for outdoor luminaires, often used in professional landscaping or public lighting, are priced at the higher end due to specialized design .
Key Considerations

When selecting a distribution box, consider:

• Number of circuits and amperage required for your lighting system.

• Environmental exposure, including rain, dust, and temperature extremes.

• Security features, such as lockable covers to prevent unauthorized access.

• Compliance with local electrical standards (e.g., BS 7654 for street lighting in the UK). By evaluating these factors, you can choose a distribution box that balances cost, durability, and functionality for your outdoor lighting project.
