II-VI specializes in advanced SFP optical transceivers and tunable modules for DWDM applications, emphasizing line-rate stability, laser performance, and diagnostic features, making them suitable for carrier-grade and data center deployments . Lumentum produces tunable SFP(+)/SFP28 modules and DWDM pluggables designed for C-band operation, ideal for metro and long-haul systems requiring channel agility and high optical performance . Source Photonics offers a broad portfolio of DWDM and CWDM SFPs for long-distance applications, providing vertically integrated manufacturing for cost-effective, high-volume procurement . Accelink provides 10G DWDM/CWDM SFP+ modules with ranges up to ZR distances (40–80 km), suitable for telecom and data center networks . Wolon Fiber (Wolon Communication) is a vertically integrated manufacturer offering SFP+ and SFP DWDM/CWDM modules, along with fiber cables, MPO, AOC, and passive multiplexing devices. They provide flexible OEM/ODM options and integrated BOM packaging for long-haul projects .

Considerations for SWDM Module Sourcing

- Compatibility: Ensure the modules support the required SWDM wavelengths and data rates.
- Customization: Many manufacturers offer OEM/ODM services for specific wavelength spacing, power levels, and form factors.
- Performance Metrics: Evaluate laser stability, channel spacing, and diagnostic features (DDM/BER logs) for long-haul or high-speed applications.
- Global Availability: Most of these manufacturers have international distribution and after-sales support, which is important for deployment and maintenance. These manufacturers provide a strong starting point for sourcing SWDM optical modules, leveraging their expertise in WDM technologies and high-speed optical transceivers.
